Extractive metallurgy is a branch of metallurgical engineering wherein process and methods of extraction of metals from their natural mineral deposits are studied.

Extractive metallurgy - Wikipedia

Ferrous metallurgy is the metallurgy of iron and its alloys. It began far back in prehistory. The earliest surviving iron artifacts, from the 4th millennium BC in Egypt, were made from meteoritic iron-nickel. It is not known when or where the smelting of iron from ores began, but by the end of the 2nd millennium BC iron was being produced from ...

When converting minerals into metals, energy is consumed. Even though energy in various forms can be used in achieving this conversion, or reduction, typically a reductant that can carry the anion of the mineral away from the desired element is used.

A new and improved synthetic route to an intermediate in the synthesis of the phosphinate ester GSK2248761A is described. In the key step, we describe the first process-scale example of a palladium-catalyzed phosphorusâ€“carbon coupling to give the entire backbone of GSK2248761A in one telescoped stage in 65% average yield on a 68 kg scale.

Molecular weaving of covalent organic frameworks, where threads of strongly bonded organic molecules are interlaced at regular intervals, allows collective large-amplitude movements of these threads and can thus adapt to variously-shaped incoming guests, giving rise to â€œadaptive inclusionâ€•, a new scenario of dynamics in solids.

Chalcopyrite ores are usually processed by means of hydrometallurgical or pyrometallurgical processes, but due to environmental aspects and the possibility of increased exploitation of mixed and lower grade ores and relatively small isolated deposits, there has been a worldwide upsurge of interest in the hydrometallurgical processes of this ore ...

A Review on Novel Techniques for Chalcopyrite Ore Processing

1. Introduction Today, there is an increasing focus on the processing of the huge reserves of nickel-rich laterite ores due to declining global reserves of nickel sulphides.
